

Ms Sintija Šmite – a head of international cooperation programmes unit at the State Education Development Agency of Latvia. She has experience in development cooperation since 2005 on strategic planning and policy level. Furthermore, she worked on education related projects in Georgia as well as worked for four years at the Organization for Security and Cooperation in Europe at the Centre in Bishkek (The Kyrgyz Republic), where her portfolio was to human rights, rule of law and democratization portfolio. During the Latvia's presidency of the Council of the EU in 2015 she served as an adviser on Central Asia at the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Latvia. During her 10 years of work experience at the Latvian government institutions she worked on the public administration reform and society integration matters as well as served as a facilitator on inter – cultural communication and state language as the second language learning. She has published few articles on inter cultural communication matters and politics in Central Asia. Sintija holds a Master degree in Eurasian studies from Uppsala University (Sweden) and a Master degree in Sociology from University of Latvia.