ETF GLAD network meeting on work-based learning in Armenia

TIMING/DATE: 26/10/2022 @ 14.00 CEST (16.00 ARMENIAN TIME)
IN ZOOM

SUMMARY:

The online seminar is being conducted under the ETF GLAD network as an initial meeting of an ETF activity on the management and governance of work-based learning. The activity will review developments in the management of work-based learning programmes in Armenia.

Stakeholders play an important role in making workplace learning success. The seminar will examine how different actors participate in different areas – the matching of students to areas for which there is skills demand, the assessment of student competence, the monitoring of the capacity of workplaces to provide training, and to programme development (incl. occupational standards/curriculum/learning content/assessment standards etc.).

The objective of this meeting is to discuss the characteristics of the successful organisation of work-based learning, and to identify feasible options that government programmes can use to support effective stakeholder participation in different areas, e.g. in occupational standards development, curriculum delivery, the design of the learning content as well as the assessment process.

The seminar will discuss involving schools, social partners and government agencies as well as their interaction. An overall aim of the ETF activity is to identify how to share tasks between the different actors while respecting the diversity of contexts.
