What is modular training programme

Mr Tomi Ahokas
Chief Technologist
Vocational Education and Training

Finnish Vocational Education and Training (VET)

- Individual qualification modules are assessed separately. The assessment takes place by demonstrating skills in real working life situations. A learner's learning outcomes are assessed by comparing them with those defined in the national qualification requirements.
- Students with sufficient vocational skills may complete a competence-based qualification or an individual qualification module without participating in preparatory training.
- A modular qualification structure is also the key to maintaining study motivation and reducing dropout rates. From the viewpoint of an individual, it is important that they can return later to continue their studies in order to complete their qualification or update their skills.
